There was a fair sized audience at the Broadway theater on Friday evening to see Clara Turner and her company play A Merry Widow's Romance, which was one of the several pleasing bills of the week. It pleased the audience as the applause signified and during the action a well rendered song was the specialty given by Mr. Walsh. It was heartfly received and the audience would have liked more.

It was also amateur night and a number of old reliables were seen again on the stage. Elicen Greiner in her song, I'm Not That Kind of a Girl, made a big hit, and carried off first prize, while Connell and Thresher in their buck and wing duet got second money. J. Carberry did a buck and wing and a Dutch clog to the delight of the crowd and received third money. The comedy number was by Joe Straub, who sang Take Me Out to the Ball Game, and Pony Boy, but the prizes had run out before he was reached.

This afternoon the company will play Oh, You Kidi in which Billy Barry has an important role, while tonight the attraction is The Beggar and Millionaire.

G. R. Harris.

Workmen are engaged in taking down the pipe organ in Christ Episcopal church, the job having been started on Wednesday. The organ is about down and will be shipped to New Haven, where Hall & Co., the same firm which installed the new pipe organ in the Masonic temple, will rebuild it and set it up again with some changes. It will be reflitted throughout, so that while the exterior will appear the same, the working parts will be greatly improved, making practically a new organ.

Among the important changes will be about $3,000 and will be known as the piacing of the console or finger-board in the chancel instead of in the organ loft, where it has been. It will hereafter be located on the north side of the chancel, back of the choir stalls, which will make it much more advansely and the organ and new console will be the memorial or the Pierce will be the memorial or the Pierce will be the memorial or the Pierce legacy. on Wednesday. A novel and very pretty affair took place in the parlors of Trinity Methodist church Froday evening known as a Thanksgiving party. For this there had been issued some three hundred invitations, each accompanied with a little sack, for use in bringing or sending back a Thanksgiving offering for the maintenance of the vested choir. The response was most satisfactory, and the evening was delightful in every way. Mr. Elmer D. Kinsman was master of ceremonies, at which he is certainly an adept. The party being given by the Philathea class, they were in smilling evidence throughout the evening. Two of their number stood at the door with baskets to receive the mysterious little slik bags, Mrs. George E. Geer, the secretary, and Mrs. George E. Robinson, the treasurer. A cordial reception committee included Mrs. A. H. Nichols, Mrs. Albin Hagstrom, Mrs. Frank E. R. Leete, and Evolus Mecan. On Friday Coroner Franklin H. Brown made his appointment of medical examiner for the town of Norwich to succeed the late Dr. George R. Harris. He named for the office Dr. Rush W. The programme was of an intermitent character. The Chelsea orchestra—Robert W. Otis, leader; Mr. and Mrs. E. LaRue Bilven, cornetist and planist; A. E. Cherry and Miss Minnie May Townsend, violinists—rendered several numbers, much to the delight of all. In addition to these two readings were given by Mrs. A. E. Park in her usual acceptable manner, both calling forth most pleasing encores. Two solos by most pleasing encores. Two solos by Miss Elsie D. Brand were also much enjoyed. These were beautifully sung, as testified to by the applause, so per-sistent that Miss Brand was compelled to gratify her listeners with two addi-

Employed Boys' Social.

Regarding the statement which was recently given to The Bulletin that Peter Kendall, who had been missing for some time, was working in Wilmington, Del., with his brother, a letter from his brother, W. J. Kendall, states this is not so. He writes that his brother visited him on Nov. 4 and again on Nov. 6, but at no time did he remain there longer than a few hours. On Nov. 6 in the evening he left there, ostensibly to join his family, but if he has not returned home he is probably in New York. The first one of a series of social evenings planned for the employed boys' class at the Y. M. C. A. gymnusium was given Friday evening at the association building after the regular class work was over. Ice cream was seried and a placeant time entoyed. It served and a pleasant time enjoyed.
